CITY WORKERS MAY GET PAY

Sales Tax Revenue Seen as Possible Source for Part of Overdue Salaries

FOR HALF OF JANUARY

Other Funds Available If People Help by Paying Taxes Early

Possibility that the city will be able to meet its payroll for the last half of January appeared likely today as County Auditor Harry V Mounts prepared to turn over to the city $4 489 70 received this morning in state sales tax funds

This money with a balance now in the city treasury will enable the city to meet the payroll of slightly more than $5 000 for the half month Time of making the back salary payments will not be determined however until the sales tax money has been placed in the treasury City Auditor J L Landis said today

The 45 per cent salary reduction ordered by council in adopting an 11 month appropriation ordinance last Friday night will not affect the January pay since the cut does not become effective until February salaries are paid The January pay was provided in a one month appropriation adopted shortly after the first of the year This appropriation provided for a 10 per cent pay reduction

With the sales tax money used for January salaries the city will have no more funds in sight for payrolls until its share of the real estate taxes now in process of collection is received The collection is set to close April 20 but it will be some time after this before a distribution is made by the county auditor City officials however will be able to receive an advance draw before then if they determine to do so Officials pointed out today that if city property owners will pay their taxes soon a sufficient fund will be created to give the city an advance draw within a short time thus making possible payment of the February payroll and other bills

Salaries are in arrears only for elective officials clerks policemen firemen and others who receive their pay from direct taxes The hospital garbage department and service department which receive their income from other sources have kept their payrolls up to date

The total of the sales tax funds received by the county auditor is $6 110 57 This is the second payment of this amount received this year After the citys share is paid the county will receive $701.26 and the remainder will go to the townships and villages

RULING REQUESTED ON POLICE PROBLEM

State Commission Asked To Decide How Reduction Should Be Made Here.

The question of how the reduction in the Marion police force will affect members of the department was placed before the state civil service commission for decision by Ralph E Carhart, city solicitor yesterday

The solicitor went to the state commission after John V Ruth service-safety director asked the city civil service commission to certify the names of the four patrolmen to be affected by the reduction Mr Carhart said today he expects a ruling by the first of the week.

He asked the state commission to decide whether the last four men to join the department or the last four patrolmen are to be dismissed Among the last four men to join the department is Chief W. E. Marks.

SCHOOLS SHARE IN FIRST STATE FUND OUTLAY

City System Gets $49.532.14 and County $29.689 33 from Columbus

UNDER FOUNDATION PLAN

Pay Raises Assured on Basis of First Quarter Distribution for 1935

Marion city and county schools will share in the first distribution of funds under the state school foundation program which was announced today by the state department of education The distribution is for the first quarter of 1935 and totals $11 044 609 for the entire state

The Marion city schools share will be $49 53. 14 and the county's share $29 689 33 according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus

With the first quarterly payment as a basis of comparison the city's share for the year will come up to expectations C A Hudson city superintendent said today

Meets with Expectations

When the city board of education drafted its financial program it was estimated that the foundation program would pay the city schools slightly more than $199 000 for the year The payment for the first quarter indicates that the income from this source for the year will come up to expectations Mr Hudson said

The foundation program will result eventually in salary increases of 13 per cent for city teachers Although the board of education has adopted a resolution granting the pay increases to comply with requirements of the foundation program the boosts will not actually be effective until the board realizes the benefits of the state payments Mr Hudson said The increases however will be retroactive the back pay being made up when funds from the state make this possible The increases amount to approximately $27 000 Mr Hudson said

County Falls Short

The county schools share of the program may run somewhat less than anticipated It was intimated by Supt D T Mills today Mr Mills said that the county expected to receive approximately $140 000 for the year The $28 689.33 allotted the county for the first quarter is about $5 500 short of the $35 000 needed to bring the county's share up to expectations Mr Mills said

County teachers also will share in pay raises granted by boards of education for Scott township Waldo Prospect Meeker LaRue Green Camp Claridon and Caledonia schools

The county pay raises will average between 10 and 15 per cent running as high as 55 per cent in some schools Mr Mills said

The payments from the foundation program are made on the basis of daily average attendance at a rate of $45 90 for each high school pupil and $30 60 for each grade pupil

Only Part in Cash

The quarterly payment announced today will be only partly in cash the remainder being in the form of notes on which the board of education can borrow in anticipation of later cash payments

Of the total distribution of $11 044 609 only $2 608 847 will be in cash and the remainder in notes The Associated Press dispatch stated

Whether the city and county boards will need to borrow on these notes was not known today

Among other schools in this district to share in the distribution are the following

Bucyrus $14 128 Galion $13 237 Kenton $14 935 Crawford county $25 094 Delaware county, $44 122 Hardin county $34 343 Morrow county $36 797 Union county $38 546 and Wyandot county $18 467

"Surprise" Fund Allotted

State Auditor Joseph T Tracy also announced he has broken down his recent $2 233 780 school revenue surprise" distribution into county allotments preparatory to making allocations to the school districts This amount is in addition to the distributions under the foundation program and represents accruals from last year under the liquid fuel tax and under the sales tax. School authorities said the surprise distribution is the last of the money they are to receive from 1935 revenue and that they have been expecting payment for some time The checks are to be sent direct to the school districts

The Marion county share of the surprise" distribution is $16,210 It is not yet known whether the Marion city schools share is included in this. Wyandot county's share is set at $7 002

Italy Will Talk Peace Under Certain Conditions

Wants Territory Already Occupied in Africa Considered Hers and Left Out of Negotiations

By The Associated Press

ROME March 5—Italy will accept the League of Nations appeal for peace with Ethiopia an excellent source said today as a basis for discussion under certain conditions

The conditions were not disclosed exactly but the principal one was declared to be that territory already occupied by Italy in East Africa must be considered hers and must not form any part of the peace negotiations

(This prediction of a conditional Italian acceptance of the league conciliation committee's appeal for an end to hostilities with a view to definite peace discussions within the framework of the league followed an Addis Ababa announcement of approval of the proposal—without reservations)

While Premier Mussolini's government still studied its formal reply to the proposal dispatched last Tuesday Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs Fulvio Suvich and the Austrian Prince Ernst von Starhemberg surveyed the relations of their two nations and the European situation as it affected them in a one-hour conference

These conversations formed a prelude to a conference this afternoon between the Austrian vice chancellor and Il Duce

Every effort was being made by Austrians and Italians to lend to von Starhemberg's visit the simplest aspect of an inspection of Italy's Fascist Blackshirt militia

Congratulates Mussolini

Before arriving in Rome von Starhemberg had telegraphed to Mussolini congratulations for the victories of the Blackshirts in east Africa

Best wishes for the future of the Fascist symbol Austrian vice chancellor messaged

He gave a luncheon today for Fascist officials and will preside tomorrow over a Fascist review

Diplomatic sources said however that many other subjects formed the program of his discussions among them an extension of the Italo-Austro-Hungarian accord to other states willing to join Preparation for the Italo-Austro-Hungarian conference here March 18 a possible Italo-German rapprochement and relations between Italy and Austria under sanctions

Marion Firemen Elect Indemnity Trustees Today

Board Will Have Charge of Fund Replacing Pension Plan

City firemen today were electing five of their members to constitute with the service-safety director the board of trustees of the firemens indemnity fund The fund was established by ordinance Monday night at a meeting of city council to replace the firemens pension system abolished last week Establishment of such a fund is required by law in cities having no pension system for firemen

No nominations have been made for the board of trustees each fireman voting for any fireman he choose according to Lloyd Lattimore central station fireman and president of the Marion local of the International Association of Firefighters The five men receiving the highest number of votes will constitute the board together with John V Ruth who will be chairman by virtue of his position as service-safety director

Lattimore who is in charge of arrangements for the election will collect the ballots Friday morning and turn them over to Mr Ruth who will tally the vote

One of the first acts of the new board will be to draw a set of rules to govern its activities Lattimore said today that the rules of the former indemnity board in effect before the pension system went into operation will likely be followed as a general outline in drafting the new regulations

The duty of the board will be to provide for indemnity payments to firemen injured in line of duty and to widows of firemen killed in line of duty The state law under which council created the board provides maximum payments of $19 a week for firemen totally disabled $10 a week for partial disability and $25 a month to widows with an addition $10 a month for each dependent child under 16 years

NEW DEALERS AND FOES CLASH OVER LOBBY QUIZ

Subpoenaed Telegrams Cause of Quarrel Which Will Reach Climax in Court March 11.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON March 5—New dealers and their foes were locked in furious struggle today over senate lobby committee's scrutiny of private telegrams Committee sources said 5 000 000 such telegrams had been subpoenaed and examined

The quarrel which produced repercussions on the floor of the house yesterday is due to be continued March 11 in District of Columbia supreme court when Silas Strawn Chicago attorney who learned that the committee was about to subpoena his telegrams and obtained a temporary injunction blocking the action will ask that the injunction be made permanent

The senate lobby committee headed by Chairman Black Democrat of Alabama will oppose the demand It was preparing its legal arguments today with the aid of Crampton Harris of Birmingham, Ala an attorney engaged for the purpose

The committee which was named to inquire into lobbying for and against legislation, called representatives of Crew Levick Co of Philadelphia to testify today

The wholesale examination of telegrams was attacked yesterday by Rep Wadsworth Republican of New York and defended by Sen Black

It strikes me Wadsworth said that we have reached a strange stage in the development of democracy when private correspondence can be seized without court procedure or search warrant" Black said

"Repeatedly it has been held that the senate can call for what it pleases. There appears to have been a concerted effort by those who seek to influence legislation behind the scenes, through subterranean channels to prevent us from getting evidence."

EXPERTS OFFER NEW TAX PLAN

Would Raise Up to $446.000.000 from Incomes and $221.000 000 from Farm Goods.

MERELY SUGGESTIONS

Also Give Figures Showing Yield Should Earnings Levy Exemptions Be Reduced.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON March 5—Administration experts submitted to a house ways and means subcommittee today suggestions for raising up to $446 000 000 additional revenue from income taxes and $221 000 000 annually from farm processing taxes

Chairman Samuel B Hill Democrat of Washington emphasized to reporters that the figures and schedules were mere suggestions

The treasury experts Hill said also turned in figures to show how a 1 per cent general manufacturers excise tax would bring in around $180 000 000 a year while a 5 per cent tax would yield about $910 000 000

Mention Broader Bracket

In the income tax field he said it was estimated $45 000 000 would come in should the exemption of a single man be lowered from $1 000 to $800 and that of a married person from $2 500 to $2 000

Leaving exemptions as they are now he said and at the same time boosting the normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent would add an estimated $121 000 000 to the government's annual receipts

By lowering exemptions on surtaxes from $4 000 to $3 000 Hill asserted and sharply increasing the rates in income brackets up to $100 000 the treasury would get an extra $226 000 000 annually

Would Tax Farm Products

Submitted by the agriculture department were proposed taxes on some 33 farm products and competing products or subdivisions of products Some eight or nine commodities and products were subject to the invalidated processing taxes

Undecided What To Do

It was apparent today that members of the committee like most members of congress had not yet made up their minds about the sweeping change proposed by the chief executive in corporation taxes Although a few were voicing praise of denunciation the rank and file were reserving judgment

A close advisor of the chief executive forecast that Mr Roosevelt would not readily abandon his proposal designed to future corporations to distribute their profits

(By applying heavy taxes averaging perhaps 42 per cent on undistributed profits and by collecting income taxes and surtaxes on such profits as are distributed in the form of dividends Mr Roosevelt hopes to raise $1 000 000 000 annually The net gain to the treasury is estimated at $620 000 000 however because certain existing corporate taxes would be repealed The money would be used for soldiers bonus and farm subsidy)

The house subcommittee had

Real Estate Owners Refuse To Arbitrate on Closed Shop Demands of Union.

LAGUARDIA URGES TRUCE

Tells Realtors They Should Accept Discussion Proposal Made by Labor Leader.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK March 5—Shortly after Mayor LaGuardia appealed to realty interests to arbitrate the building service employes strike James J Bambrick strike leader today declared that he would "carry the fight to a finish"

Bambrick said he was prepared to issue strike calls for sections of the city as yet unaffected by the walkout which began last Sunday

Negotiations Prove Futile

The statement of the strike leader who is president of the local unit of the Building Service Employes union, came after peace negotiations at city hall ended in sharp disagreement

Real estate owners through representatives declined to arbitrate on the closed shop issue one of three demands the union is making

To the realty interests, Mayor LaGuardia who has strenuously sought a settlement of the strike, said

"I want to appeal to the real estate interests to consider this offer

Would Call Strike Off

"The minute the arbitration offer is accepted the union will call off the strike and go back to work. I cannot see how any reasonable persons can reject any such offer"

Bambrick previously had said that if an agreement were not reached by the conference he would give the order to "tear up the town

"There seems to be no possibility of agreement despite the fact that the union has offered to arbitrate any question and return to work this morning" the mayor said.

The strike started with dramatic suddenness last Sunday So widespread did the walkout become that Mayor LaGuardia acting to preserve threatened health conditions declared a state of civic emergency Monday

Wants Two Questioned

While the strike continued in full force today, District Attorney William C Lodge sought to question Bambrick and George Scalise International vice president Subpoenas were issued for them last night.

Dodge wanted the union leaders to answer questions concerning the violent parade on fashionable Park avenue that followed Bambrick's remarks and charges made by the newly organized tenants' defense league that Bambrick had conspired to "incite to riot"

According to police reports there have been more than 600 instances of violence and disorder and 90 arrests since the strike started

Silent on Future Plans

Bambrick looking tired and haggard as he left the mayor's office in city hall after the conference would not disclose the union's future plans

Police estimated today that service in 1 600 buildings was affected City officials expressed alarm over growing accumulations of garbage

Aiding the mayor in attempting to settle the strike were Ben Golden of the regional labor board and Edward F McGrady, assistant secretary of labor

RAIL, SPECIALTY ISSUES BULLISH

Profit Taking Apparent in Steels, Motors, Utilities and Mining Shares.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK March 5—Strength of carrier and specialty stocks was the principal bullish influence in today's market.

There was a little profit taking in a few of the steels motors utilities and mines but selling apparently was not of an urgent character

Up to the approach of the fourth hour the volume of transactions was considerably under that of Wednesday

Share gainers of 1 to 3 points included Union Pacific, Santa Fe New York Central Delaware & Hudson Case International Harvester Deere Auburn American Chain Murray Corp Certain Teed and Marshall Field

Chrysler General Motors U S Steel Bethlehem U S Smelting Western Union North American Cerro De Pasco and a number of others were off fractions to a point. The oils were slightly improved

U S government securities and rail bonds edged higher Commodities were irregular but quiet The dollar was steady in foreign exchange centers

Friends of the oils noted that January business of the petroleum companies in general was better than in the same period a year ago although unfavorable motoring condition in February brought a decline in gasoline consumption A pickup in the latter was anticipated with the approach of spring

Traders arguing that many stocks already may have discounted inflation earnings and other influences pointed to the February advance of $1 037 090 870 in the market value of listed equities

On the other hand the stock exchange reported that net borrowings on collateral by members were actually less on March 1 than at the beginning of the previous month

Followers of the automobile stocks were heartened by advices from Detroit that generally warmer weather throughout the country has spurred retail sales of both used an new motor cars

COUNTY HEALTH BOARD SCHEDULES SHICK TESTS

Protection Against Diphtheria Advocated for All Children Between Six Months and 15 Years

Preliminary arrangements were being made today by the county health department to hold Schick tests for children between the ages of six months and 15 years to determine their immunity from diphtheria, Dr. N. Sifrit county health commissioner announced.

Those showing a positive reaction from the tests which will be held in about two weeks will be given immunization treatment to protect them from the disease. Details of the tests will be announced within a few days.

The county health department has prepared the following statement to parents in connection with the coming tests:

Diphtheria is a disease which attacks the throat, nose and larynx of children most frequently. It is caused by a germ which is found only in human beings although it will grow and live for a short time in milk.

"This germ grows in the throat and nose of child and produces a poison called toxin which enters the blood and is distributed to all parts of the body. This toxin or poison attacks the body cells especially the nerve cells causing paralysis and perhaps death.

About 85 per cent of all babies up to six months of age are protected from diphtheria by anti toxin which they have received from the mother's milk after birth. This natural antitoxin which protects so many babies up to six months of age disappears and that is why the average child has no further protection until he is about 15 years of age.

Eighty five per cent of all deaths from diphtheria occur in this age group. Immunization against diphtheria is most necessary between the ages of six months and 15 years.

Within a short time the Marion county health department will again give to parents of Marion county children the opportunity to have their children Schick tested and if a strong positive reaction will be given the treatment which will protect them against diphtheria.

"All children who have been reported by it and in the past should again also permit cards and be rechecked in order to determine their susceptibility to the disease.

These cards will be distributed through the Marion county schools to be signed by the parents and returned to the teachers.

Children between the ages of six months and six years may be brought to school by the parents. Please consult your local school physician or teacher for the exact time and hour when this service is available.

In Ohio History

From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories written for the Associated Press.

POLITICS SUSPENDED

A prominent lawyer at the Cleveland bar in the middle of the last century was John A. Foote who had come to open a law office there from New Haven, Conn. He was of a prominent family. In such high estimation was John A. Foote held in New Haven that although the town was overwhelmingly Democratic and Foote was a Whig it was proposed he should be elected to the legislature. The plan also included Edward A. Cornwell another New Haven man. Fifty years later there was an unusual sequel. Both Foote and Cornwell arranged to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their removal to Ohio by visiting together at their old home in New Haven. The Connecticut legislature was in session and voted a recess in order that a reception might be given in their honor.

KROGER TO FIGHT "UNFAIR" TAXATION

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI O. March 5.—Albert H. Morrill president of the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. informed stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday that the company paid $11 a share in taxes in 1935.

We are going to continue to resist taxes which are unfair and discriminatory, he said, adding that he did not anticipate harmful effects from President Roosevelt's proposed tax on corporate surpluses. We are well heeled financially to pay out of future earnings, he said. All directors were reelected.

Magazine Article Latest Product of W. P. Grant, Also Music Writer

An interesting article on music and its relative values written by William P. Grant an instructor of music in the Marion County schools, appeared in a recent issue of the Musical Courier an international musical news magazine. Although the contribution is his most recent he has written a number of articles which have appeared in other musical journals including Musical Record, Chord and Discord, The Etude and the Ohio Schools Magazine.

In addition to writing articles Mr. Grant has written a number of musical compositions which have been presented by Columbus musical groups. His orchestrations of "Poeme Elegiaque" and "Minuet in D" were played by the Columbus Symphony orchestra several years ago and the latter was also played by the Capital university orchestra. A ballet number "Dream of the Ballet Master" arranged as a piano quintet was used as a musical setting by Adram Pustinsky in a dance recital given by Stella J. Becker in the spring of 1934 at Columbus and last year the Men's Glee club of Capital university sang two compositions for which he wrote the music. "Song of the Monks and Benedictus." Another number "Nunc Dimittis" written for mixed voices also is in the repertoire of the chapel choir at Capital university.

Mr. Grant joined the staff of Marion county teachers last fall and is supervisor of music in the schools in Prospect, Meeker and Marion township. He studied at Capital university and Ohio State university and received his M. A. degree from the latter. Music has interested him since he was eight years old and he has been writing music since he was 11 years of age. In addition to composing, Mr. Grant is an organist and pianist. His home is in Columbus and while in Marion is making his home at 343 Brightwood drive.

NUNS FINISH MASS DESPITE FLAMES

By The Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. March 5.—Thirteen nuns calmly completed mass in a second story chapel of St. Anthony's convent here yesterday while four fire companies fought a first floor blaze in the building.

Mother St. Joseph who discovered the fire in a closet on the first floor had a sexton call firemen and then notified other members of the congregation who were at mass. Although smoke filtered into the chapel the nuns waited nine minutes until the Rev. Fr. Francis McCabe had finished mass before filing out of the building.

The flames burned through the upper floors of the building later and the interior was wrecked.

SEED CORN TESTS MAKE POOR SHOWING IN COUNTY

Star on Since 1918 Blamed on Excessive Rains and Severe Winter.

...nounced today by ...gent S. L. Ander... ...ting germination ... ...ains of corn from ...ed from all parts ... The tests were ... known as the ... which Mr. An... ...curate in present ... ...n section picture ... corn ... ...ts tests showed ... percentage of test ... absolutely unfit ... The only samples that ... ...e those selected ... dried. Out of 40 grains of this type tested 39 were revealed as good, a percentage of 97.5 per cent fertile.

Record of Tests

Of 760 grains of crib corn tested only 274, or 36 per cent, sprouted. Of 460 grains of corn that had been selected but not artificially dried 263 or 57.1 per cent, sprouted. Of the total 1,280 grains tested only 577 or 45 per cent, were found to be fertile.

"From the results of the tests I would say the situation in this county is very dark," Mr. Anderson said. He termed it worse than in 1925 the last bad year for seed corn. "I would hardly say it was worse than in 1918, but it would come close to equaling it if the first tests are to be taken as a barometer," Mr. Anderson added.

In elaborating on the results of the rag doll tests the farm agent explained that the crib corn samples from the various cribs ran from zero to 90 per cent fertile. The crib corn that tested highest was the earlier maturing corn which of course is drier. There was a variation in samples taken from different parts of the same crib. Mr. Anderson said samples taken from the top of a crib were better because they had an opportunity to dry more thoroughly. Samples taken from the center of the same crib showed poor germination.

Record of Other Samples

Variations found in samples of other corn follow: tests from selected seed corn not artificially dried variation from 10 to 100 per cent; from selected corn artificially dried variation from 90 to 100 per cent; shock corn, virtually all bad.

As for old corn one sample of 24 ears of 1934 corn was taken from one crib and showed only 66 per cent fertile. "This tells us we can't depend upon the old corn for germination purposes without testing that too," Mr. Anderson said.

The farm agent said a report from a seed house doing business in this territory informed him it had conducted tests of old corn and that germination ran as low as 40 per cent.

Mr. Anderson is making further tests of crib corn that showed good germination to determine how much of this will be available for planting. Meanwhile the farm agent and his assistants are contemplating setting up a testing station here for the convenience of farmers if the situation appears as bad as the first tests indicate this will be done, he said.

The poor quality of this year's corn has been attributed by R. D. Lewis, agronomy professor at Ohio State university, to two major factors, the high moisture content of the kernel, and the abnormally cold weather of the winter. It is estimated that between 500,000 and 600,000 bushels of seed corn will be needed to plant Ohio's 3,000,000 acres of corn land.

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

All kinds of people choose Luckies, each for reasons of his own. But everyone agrees that Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied flavor. It is a rather surprising fact that the leaves of the same tobacco plant may vary far more than the types of plants of quite different tobaccos. Chemical analysis shows that the top leaves contain excess alkalies which tenders give a harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidify the smoke. It is only the middle leaves which are ideally balanced to produce the smoothest, mildest, best-tasting smoke. That's why "It's Toasted" Lucky Strike Cigarettes, in which only these leaves are used,

RESERVE BOARD DROPS 6 HEADS

Shakeup Intended To Avoid "Dual Executive Responsibility" at 12 U. S. Banks.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 5—In a drastic shakeup, the federal reserve board announced last night it would terminate the services of six regional bank chairmen, effective April 30.

An accompanying statement said the action was in line with procedure intended to avoid "dual executive responsibility" at the 12 federal reserve banks, and to place the chairmanship upon a "purely honorary basis."

Also Have Presidents

The banks also have presidents.

Chairmen who will be dropped are F. H. Curtiss, Boston; J. H. Cafe, New York; R. L. Austin, Philadelphia; E. M. Stevens, Chicago; J. S. Wood, St. Louis, and C. C. Walsh, Dallas.

Three present chairmen were designated to continue until Dec. 31. They are E. S. Burke Jr., Cleveland; H. W. Martin, Atlanta, and W. B. Geery, Minneapolis.

J. J. Thomas, Kansas City, previously had been reappointed for the remainder of the year. There are vacancies at Richmond and San Francisco.

The 12 federal reserve banks are headed by chairmen and presidents. The chairmen, who also serve as federal reserve agents, are appointed by the reserve board here. The presidents are chosen by directors of individual banks, who in turn represent commercial banks in various districts.

The Banker's Age

Under the 1935 banking act, the presidents are subject to confirmation by the reserve board, which exercised this veto power for the first time last week by rejecting G. W. Norris as president of the Philadelphia bank. The reason given for the rejection was his age—71.

The board's brief statement, which did not explain why only six of the present chairmen are to be dropped, said the new procedure would result in a "more efficient organization" and that "substantial economies" in the operation of the system would be accomplished.

SEEKS STATE OFFICE

COLUMBUS, O., March 5—Dennis F. Dunlavy, assistant chief of the state securities division, announced yesterday his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Dunlavy, an Ashtabula attorney, was an unsuccessful candidate for the same office in 1934.

BANDITS FLEE WITH CASH AND JEWELRY

Take $400 Out of Safe Plus Valuable Diamonds and Watches.

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, O., March 5 — Clues were few today, police admitted, as they sought two young, well-dressed bandits who raided the jewelry store of R. O. Wieland, compelled Wieland and three clerks to lie on the floor, and escaped with $400 in cash, diamonds valued by him at between $2,000 and $3,000, and an assortment of watches.

Wieland said the robbery followed a visit by one of the men who asked to be shown some diamond engagement rings, saying he would return, the man left. Wieland told police, then appeared a half hour later with his accomplice.

Scooping $400 out of the store safe, the bandits appeared "choicy" in removing gems from showcases, rejecting rubies and trinkets in favor of what they termed "real stuff."

Through the several minutes they were in the store, Wieland said one man kept Richard Gray, Ralph Snyder and L. J. Sharrit clerks, and himself covered with a gun, as they lay face down on the floor.

YOUNGSTOWN PLANT DESTROYED BY FIRE

$500,000 Blaze Boosts Damage Toll of Recent Weeks to New High.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 5—The heavy damage toll from numerous recent fires in Ohio was boosted by $500,000 today after a spectacular blaze wrecked the plant of the Cold Metal Process Co., maker of rolling mills for steel plants.

V. J. Lamb, president, estimated the loss and said it was "well covered by insurance." He and other officials were attempting to arrange temporary quarters to resume production on unfinished orders.

Although workmen said plasterboard had caught fire from an acetylene torch's spark, Fire Chief Herman Steinfurth said he believed a short circuit might have started the blaze.

The company's office building and other nearby structures were saved.

No one was injured. The terrific heat crumpled the huge girders and metal walls of the structure.

SLEEPING INFANT KICKS AND SMILES

By The Associated Press

ERIE, Pa., March 5 — Baby Maxine Yarrington smiled yesterday, the first sign of consciousness since she fell into a strange sleep six months ago.

Physicians and nurses said the two-and-one-half-year-old baby also kicked feebly as Sister M. Alicia, supervisor of a children's ward, lifted her from a crib for feeding.

The feeble smile flashed as Maxine's mother, Mrs. Lloyd Yarrington, bent over her crib and said:

"Hello, Humdinger."

"Humdinger" is the pet name given to little Maxine by her parents and five small brothers and sisters, who depend on Lloyd Yarrington's $15 a week WPA job for support.

The slumbering baby is fed on mashed vegetables, soup and milk. She has gained weight during her long sleep, diagnosed by physicians as encephalitis lethargica.

NO, NO—I WANT RINSO. IT'S THE ONLY SOAP I EVER USE IN MY WASHING MACHINE
WHY DO YOU INSIST ON RINSO? DOES A SOAP MAKE SO MUCH DIFFERENCE IN A WASHER?
IT CERTAINLY DOES. RINSO GIVES THICKER, CREAMIER SUDS EVEN IN OUR HARD WATER
AND IT WASHES COTTONS AND LINENS 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER
THEN I MUST TRY RINSO IN MY WASHER. IT MAY BE JUST WHAT I NEED TO GET A REAL SNOWY WASH
SEE HOW MUCH WHITER YOUR SHIRTS ARE—SINCE I CHANGED TO RINSO
Rinso
THE HARD WATER SOAP

MILLIONS of women without washers have said goodbye to back-breaking washboard scrubbing by changing to Rinso—the soap that SOAKS clothes clean without scrubbing or boiling.

Clothes soaked in Rinso's creamy, active suds come 4 or 5 shades whiter and brighter than they do with old-fashioned soaps and methods. Even grimy cuffs and edges come clean with a little gentle hand rubbing. This "no-scrub" method not only saves you—it saves the clothes.

Washer experts endorse it

Rinso is recommended by the makers of 33 famous washers. Gives thick suds even in hardest water. Grand for dishes. Rinso's rich suds make grease vanish completely. No greasy film left on dishes.

GOOD GARDENING

BEETS

The beet is an old favorite of the city gardener, because it may be planted in rows as close together as a foot, the plants themselves only three or four inches apart. Too, it will stand a light frost and may be planted unusually early—all the way from February in the gulf south to late May in the far north. You can make the necessary furrow with the end of a hoe handle, about an inch deep. Eight or ten seed to the foot or row are enough. A row 5 feet long successfully cultivated will produce enough beets for an average family. Don't forget to thin the plants to about three inches apart in the row.

"I don't know—but I've a feeling something might happen."

"How awful! Let's go ever so quickly."

"I'll settle Badger. You go and start the car."

"I shall never buy that tooth-brush," said Frankie.

Five minutes saw them speeding out of Chipping Somerton. Bobby had no occasion to complain of lack of speed.

Nevertheless, Frankie suddenly said, "Look here, Bobby, this isn't quick enough."

Bobby glanced at the speedometer needle, which was, at the moment, registering eighty, and remarked drily, "I don't see what more we can do."

"We can take an air taxi," said Frankie. "We're only about seven miles from Medeshot airport."

"My dear girl!" said Bobby.

"If we do that we'll be home in a couple of hours."

"Good," said Bobby. "Let's take an air taxi."

The whole proceeding was beginning to take on the fantastic character of a dream. Why this wild hurry to get to Marchbolt? Bobby didn't know. He suspected that Frankie didn't know either. It was just a feeling.

At Medeshot Frankie asked for Mr. Donald King, and an untidy-looking young man was produced who appeared languidly surprised at the sight of her.

"Hullo, Frankie," he said. "I haven't see you for an age. What do you want?"

"I want an air taxi," said Frankie. "You do that sort of thing, don't you?"

"Oh, yes. Where do you want to go?"

"I want to get home quickly," said Frankie.

Five minutes later they were off.

* * *

"Frankie," said Bobby, "why are we doing this?"

"I haven't the faintest idea," said Frankie. "But I feel we must. Don't you?"

"Curiously enough, I do. But I don't know why. After all, our Mrs Robert's won't fly away on a broomstick."

"She might. Remember, we don't know what Bassington-ffrench is up to."

"That's true," said Bobby thoughtfully.

It was growing late when they reached their destination. The plane landed them in the Park, and five minutes later Bobby and Frankie were driving into Marchbolt.

They pulled up outside the Vicarage gate, the Vicarage drive not lending itself to the turning of expensive cars.

Then jumping out they ran up the drive.

"I shall wake up soon," thought Bobby. "What are we doing and why?"

A slender figure was standing on the doorstep. Frankie and Bobby recognized her at the same minute.

"Moira!" cried Frankie.

Moira turned. She was waving slightly. "Oh, I'm so glad to see you. I don't know what to do."

"But what on earth brings you here?"

"The same thing that has brought you, I expect."

"You have found out who Evans is?" asked Bobby.

Moira nodded. "Yes, it's a long story—"

"Come inside," said Bobby.

But Moira shrank back. "No no," she said hurriedly. "Let's go somewhere and talk. There's something I must tell you—before we go into the house. Isn't there a cafe or some place like that in the town? Somewhere we could go?"

"All right," said Bobby, moving unwillingly away from the door. "But why—"

Moira stamped her foot. "You'll see when I tell you. Oh, do come! There's not a minute to lose."

They yielded to her urgency. About halfway down the main street was the Orient Cafe, whose somewhat grand name was not borne out by the interior decoration. The three of them filed in. It was a slack moment—half-past six.

They sat down at a small table in the corner, and Bobby ordered three coffees.

"Now then?" he said.

"Wait till she's brought the coffee," said Moira.

The waitress returned and listlessly deposited three cups of tepid coffee in front of them.

"Now then," said Bobby again.

"I hardly know where to begin," said Moira. "It was in the train going to London. Really the most amazing coincidence. I went along the corridor and—"

She broke off. Her seat faced the door and she leant forward staring.

"He must have followed me," she said.

"Who?" cried Frankie and Bobby together.

"Bassington-ffrench," whispered Moira.

"You've seen him?"

"He's outside. I saw him. With a woman with red hair."

"Mrs. Cayman," cried Frankie.

She and Bobby jumped and ran to the door. A protest came from Moira, but neither of them heeded it. They looked up and down the street but Bassington-ffrench was nowhere in sight.

Moira joined them.

"Has he gone?" she asked, her voice trembling. "Oh! do be careful. He's dangerous—horribly dangerous."

"He can't do anything so long as we're all together," said Bobby. "Brace up, Moira," said Frankie. "Don't be such a rabbit."

"Well, we can't do anything for the moment," said Bobby, leading the way back to the table. "Go on with what you were telling us, Moira."

* * *

He picked up his cup of coffee. Frankie lost her balance and fell against him, and the coffee poured over the table.

"Sorry," said Frankie.

She stretched over to the adjoining table, which was laid for possible diners. There was a cruet on it with two glass-stoppered bottles containing oil and vinegar.

The oddity of Frankie's proceedings riveted Bobby's attention. She took the vinegar bottle, emptied out the vinegar into the slop-bowl and began to pour coffee into it from her cup.

"Have you gone batty, Frankie?" asked Bobby. "What the devil are you doing?"

"Taking a sample of this coffee for George Arbuthnot to analyze," said Frankie.

She turned to Moira.

"The game's up, Moira! The whole thing came to me in a flash as we stood at the door just now! When I jogged Bobby's elbow and made him spill his coffee I saw your face. You put something in our cups when you sent us running to the door to look for Bassington-ffrench. The game's up, Mrs. Nicholson or Templeton or whatever you like to call yourself!"

"Templeton?" cried Bobby.

"Look at her face," cried Frankie. "If she denies it, ask her to come to the Vicarage and see if Mrs. Roberts doesn't identify her."

Bobby did look at her. He saw that face—that haunting, wistful face—transformed by a demoniac rage. The beautiful mouth opened and a stream of foul and hideous curses poured out. She fumbled in her handbag.

Bobby was still dazed, but he acted in the nick of time. It was his hand that struck the pistol up.

For the first time in its history one of the waitresses hurried. With a wild scream she shot out into the street, calling: "Help! Murder! Police!"

Frankie gets a letter, tomorrow, from South America—of all places.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Makes Preparations to Return Home With Dicky

KATHERINE STARED at me for an instant as I told her that I had turned Junior's remorse for his anger at her into an asset for the weeks to come. Then she swept into a low bow. "Lady, take my hat!" she intoned. "Also my best gloves and my galoshes. I comprehend and salute the workings of your Machiavellian brain. You've taken advantage of your son's Puritan conscience to extract a promise he will stand by my right hand and hold the bridge with me, play Aaron to my Moses, and hold up my hands in the wilderness, and in general emulate all the long list of faithful friends in history, legend and story. Poor Junior. Old Athus will have nothing on him for the next few weeks."

"Don't be silly!" I admonished her. "You know very well that nothing sits heavily upon shoulders as young and carefree as Junior's. But I do think he is very anxious to prove to you how good a boy he can be, and that ought to be helpful."

"It will be," she said. "However, Junior doesn't need to prove to me how good a boy he can be. I know it already. There's only one thing that's causing me the least bit of anxiety in this regime up here, and that is la femme."

She grinned engagingly at me and I laughed.

"You mean young Betty," I said.

Efficient Cooperation

"The same," she replied. "She's one of the finest little youngsters in the world. You can see that, but she has that restless devilry in her that won't let her stay put for a minute. I'm pretty well used to the mental make-ups of Junior and Roderick. For a long while I've known pretty nearly how they were going to react to any given influence. But I must confess I can't see a second ahead when Betty is in the offing."

"Nor I, either," I confessed. "But I don't believe your friend, Mrs. Gibbs, has any doubts as to her young daughter's reactions."

"No," Katherine laughed. "She can outguess Betty every time, and keep about six feet ahead of her. If it weren't for that, I'd either have to banish Betty from the camp altogether, or move far away from here. But as it is, I'll be able to manage beautifully, for if Betty gets the least bit obstreperous, I shall call on her mother.

"Nell would want me to. Indeed, she'd be ripping mad at me if I didn't call her in. She's up against the same proposition as we are. Betty by herself, and Betty with two new small boys as playmates, are altogether two different propositions.

"And Nell can't afford to let Betty get out of hand. So you see I shall have most efficient co-operation, and we shall ride herd hard on the three children. If you have any pity to spare, give it to the kids. Don't waste it on Nell and me."

Children Exhausted

"I'm not worried about the youngsters missing any good times with you and Mrs. Gibbs on the job," I told her affectionately. "But I do hope they get to sleep early tonight. We must have a final talk with Mary and Noel tonight, and I want to get to sleep myself as soon as possible. We have a long, hard drive tomorrow."

"What time are you starting?"

"At daybreak," I said, and then with a sudden realization of the meaning behind her question, I shook my head at her.

"That doesn't concern you," I said. "I'm going to prepare everything tonight, so getting our breakfast will be a very simple matter. And I want you to keep your head right on your downy pillow. If you make the slightest motion toward getting up, I shall scalp you."

"I'll be good," she laughed, but I know that her answer was an equivocal one, and that in all probability she would get up in the morning to speed us on our way.

"I'll start in on my good deeds as soon as the youngsters get back," she said. "If you'll take Betty home—you can take the boys down with her—I'll have a 'light collation' ready for them when you get back. I think they're both tired enough to go to sleep without any rocking."

Her prediction was fulfilled. When the children came back with Dicky and Williams from their archery contest, they were plainly fagged out. Even Betty, the unthinking, made no protest at going home, and the two boys almost fell asleep immediately. But Junior was awake enough to say insistently when I kissed him, "You're going to say goodby to me tomorrow morning before you go, aren't you, Mumsy?"

NEW COAL PRICE SCHEDULE ORDERED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON March 5 — The soft coal commission directed operators east of the Mississippi yesterday to file new price schedules by March 12 in accord with a weighted average cost of $2.07 a ton.

Four days later heads of district boards in this price area are to meet the commission to correlate prices between districts. The correlated prices are to be filed March 23 for approval, rejection, or modification.

Commission officials said the correlation hearing called for March 10 probably would be postponed.

The Guffey coal control act provides that prices be based on the weighted average cost of producing a ton of coal in the whole price area. The figure set by the commission does not mean that all coal will sell for as much as $2.07 a ton. It means that the operators as a whole must realize at least $2.07 a ton for all the coal they sell.

The Stars Say--

For Friday, March 6.

AN EVENTFUL and momentous day is presaged from the powerful lunar and solar influnces. There is sign of great progress and prosperity, with an unexpected change having far-reaching effect on the future destiny. Decisions on this should be clear and incisive, and not be clouded by confusion, singular mental slants or mysterious lures, nor with rash or precipitous judgments. With forethought and sagacity, surprising progress and prosperity are assured.

Those whose birthday it is will find themselves called upon to make decisions affecting their whole future lives. Sudden events and opportunities present themselves, which, if wisely deliberated and manipulated, may lead to great progress and prosperity. But the mind is under a perplexing or confused influence, with angles of intrigue and mystery, and these should be submitted to sound judgments and principles, and unexpected gain will materialize.

A child born on this day may be skillful, ingenious, original and independent, with a progressive and prosperious life, probably in the public eye.

It may have, as well, peculiar leanings and be sensitive and emotional.

Notable nativity: Elizabeth Browning, poet.

BELIEVE ROBBERY SOLVED IN ARRESTS

Sheriff Miller Gets Details from Chicago; Suspect Held Here

The arrest of two Chicago negroes, Frank Herman, 28, and Charles Wells, 28, by state highway patrolmen near Waldo Monday is believed to have cleared up a recent "strong arm" robbery in Chicago, Sheriff Fred F. Miller said today.

Information linking Herman and possibly Wells with the crime has been received by the sheriff in a telegram from Chicago. The telegram, which is from John L. Sullivan, chief of detectives there, said Herman definitely is wanted, and that in the robbery, which occurred Feb. 25 and netted two Negroes $20, Herman was accompanied by an unknown colored man. A description of the latter was contained in the telegram, and Sheriff Miller said it tallies very closely with Wells's appearance. The sheriff has sent fingerprints photographs and description to Detective Sullivan.

Both Wells and Herman have waived extradition and are expected to be returned to Chicago in a day or two.

Cliff Dwellers.

An elevator operators strike in New York City is successful in ratio to the inconvenience and loss it can inflict on the men and women who ride elevators. A rubber workers strike in Akron is successful in ratio to the desperation it can produce among merchants employers and among thousands of unsympathetic employes. Without the complexity which is characteristic of modern industry and customs the strike would be no weapon at all. Thanks to complexity it is an extremely dangerous weapon—more dangerous than some of those who wield it arrogantly and recklessly are able to understand. They are feeling backfires of resentment which eventually will embarrass them.

What will be the ultimate effect of an elevator operators strike on New York City's virtually helpless cliff dwellers? Will they accept complacently their involuntary role of pawns in a desperate struggle between their landlords and the organizers of elevator operators? Will operators be able to command their support for tactics which victimize them? The elevator operators strike is an isolated and exaggerated demonstration of the striking method but it entails questions of policy which organized labor can not afford to ignore.

Organized labor is not dealing with employers alone. It is dealing also with the consumers of its products and the purchasers of its services. It is confronted with a problem of public relations which it must recognize. There is much evidence indicating that some of organized labor's leaders are not yet aware of the importance of popular support in any minority movement which hopes to establish itself on a permanent basis.

Explanation.

It is no secret that Premier William Aberhart of the province of Alberta is going to be watched intently by every panacea skeptic in the United States and Canada. If and when Mr. Aberhart falls off the end of the political limb where he is perching precariously there will be an uproar that will make Hallo Selassie think Premier Mussolini has decided to lead an attack on Addis Ababa.

Mr. Aberhart is one of the many fixers at work on the continent of North America. His particular remedy is called social credit. Compared with it the Townsend plan and share the wealth are the cautious proposals of smug reactionaries. But Mr. Aberhart, unlike most of the other panacea peddlers sold his idea to the electorate and became head of the government of Alberta. His friends and admirers called his bluff.

All that happened last fall. Ever since then the gullible Albertans who took social credit at Mr. Aberhart's word have been waiting for the millennium. On last reports they were wondering what tax increases had to do with a more abundant life and beginning to suspect that they were holding the well known sack for a slick political trickster. It will be a real pleasure to announce some time in the near future that Mr. Aberhart has proved again that the best way to deal with crackpots is to call their bluff.

Farleyisms.

It is doubtful if Postmaster General Farley would like to conduct his part of the presidential campaign on the issue he described to an audience of young Democrats in New Hampshire Monday night.

Federal relief money, declared Mr. Farley, is the measure between good times and desperate times in New England. If the government were to quit spending on the exaggerated new deal scale the postmaster general continued the country would go tumbling back toward the desperate economic conditions that prevailed during the last part of the Hoover administration.

If quoted correctly Mr. Farley intends to point out that the Roosevelt administration is responsible for whatever improvement has taken place since March 1933. But he also seems to say that the improvement is artificial and that it would disappear if the federal government were to cease its emergency expenditures. That is an exceedingly interesting idea. It seems to be in conflict with a more common contention however.

That is the contention that the Roosevelt administration has brought about recovery. Apparently, there is misunderstanding on that point among prominent new deal spokesmen. If Mr. Farley means what he seems to mean, there has been [illegible] at all but merely an illusory improvement created and sustained by the stimulation of spending. In other words if the spending were to stop the illusion of improvement would stop also.

It is difficult to believe that Mr. Farley would be caught feeding with his chin on a weasel. After all, if federal spending is the thing which is making the country feel better I should be easy for the new deal spenders to convince many voters that Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Farley, et al of the big budget group merely are pleading for time until the money runs out. That would be hard on their case for re-election. It is possible Mr. Farley has made a serious slip.

It Comes Out Here

Whatever [illegible] taxation may be, it may be unwise and difficult to understand.

On Tuesday, to press received the White House's recommendations for a tax program. The program was heralded with the startling information that $1,614,000,000 which made congressmen shake in their shoes.

Close examination revealed certain redeeming features. No direct taxes were proposed for [illegible] numbers of voters would be affected. The whole thing in fact was a master plaster for corporations and it is expected to include the well to do widows and orphans.

Simplified Mr. Roosevelt's proposal calls for a tax of 42½% on undistributed corporate profits which the treasury bill estimated would yield $1,614,000,000. If we [illegible] other taxes which are expected to yield $304,000,000 this year would be repealed the new income would be [illegible] $1,000,000.

A direct tax on undistributed corporate profits [illegible] would add $1,000,000,000 to the $1,000,000 for a total of $2,[illegible]00,000 in the next fiscal year. Both taxes would be temporary. The tax on undistributed corporate profits would be permanent. It would provide revenue for payment under the new farm aid bill estimated at $499,000,000 and leave approximately $1,000,000,000 for other purposes. President's plans name $149,000,000 as the amount needed annually to pay the soldiers bonus over a period of nine years. Presto the ordinary budget is balanced.

There are of course implications on the practical side. Mr. Roosevelt's figures are estimates not actualities. Some of the estimates furthermore strain the imagination such as an annual yield of anything like $1,614,000,000 from a tax on undistributed corporate profits. Obviously corporations would not submit passively to such confiscation.

There will be difficulty no doubt persuading some congressmen that a confiscatory tax on undistributed corporate profits is proper. Every prudent corporation lays aside some of its net earnings just as every prudent individual tries to lay up something against a rainy day. The present administration seems hostile to the idea of prudence in any form but it may have trouble imposing its will on a majority in congress.

In fact it is extremely puzzling. One longs for something tangible on which he can take his stand. Retreat is provided in the certainty that no matter how intricate the process of taxation may become the money always comes out at the same place, the pocket of the taxpayer. The main thing is that the government is getting ready to sweat out approximately a billion dollars worth of additional revenue. Congress probably won't have the courage to do it all at once but some kind of a start will be made during the present session. After the election is over the job will be finished.

New Tax Plan Ends Breathing Spell

Latest Proposal To Levy on Industrial Surpluses Most Drastic Yet Proposed by Roosevelt.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1936, by The Marion Star.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The "breathing spell" is over. It lasted less than seven months. President Roosevelt declared last summer that his legislative program had reached substantial completion. He gave the impression that no radical or revolutionary proposals would subsequently come from the White House to congress.

But the latest recommendation by the President in a special message to congress is more revolutionary than anything Mr. Roosevelt has proposed to congress in the whole three years of his administration.

If enacted by congress the proposed tax on undistributed earnings will in the view of many opponents of the measure impair the recovery machine and cause a widespread pulling in of work ahead, launched to say nothing of objections that will come from labor groups on the ground that the measure may cause a throwing out of employment at the slightest sign of adverse times in the future.

Politically the proposal is fraught with such danger that this correspondent doubts that the bill will ever be passed unless it is with a series of exemptions and amendments as will hardly attain the revenue claimed for it by its sponsors.

* * *

Briefly, the new tax plan means a serious dilemma for a corporation which has accumulated a surplus and which may now be feeling secure enough to undertake a little expansion or rehabilitation of plant believing that it can replace out of future earnings what it now takes out of the past surpluses. But faced with a threat that all future earnings will be taxed heavily unless distributed the corporation may feel that it is unwise to spend any of the past surplus and that it is better to keep all available surplus hitherto accumulated for the rainy days that all businesses are apprehensive about.

The records show that had there been no surpluses accumulated by business corporations America would have suffered in the last five years much more acutely and there would have been many times the unemployment that actually occurred. Business and industry are supposed to have dipped into their surplus to the extent of about twice the total amount lent by the federal government for relief.

Now the proposed law will not touch past surpluses. This means that corporations which had made plans for expansion will retain their surpluses in the treasury, a circumstance that will not tend to encourage the use of these accumulations of capital for construction or extension of plant as at a time when the nation had begun to feel the stimulating effects of a recovery movement.

The President estimated that more than $1,000,000,000 could be raised by the tax on surpluses which means that he has in mind a rate of about 25 to 30 per cent on total earnings.

* * *

In answer to the arguments about future expansion defenders of the proposed tax say companies can continue to borrow in the capital markets. But how safe will investors regard future bond issues if, apart from sinking fund requirements, the company itself cannot lay enough aside to take care of the hazards of business.

What it all amounts to is a regulation of the management of American business by means of a tax statute. The administration makes no effort to conceal that purpose. President Roosevelt in outlining the whole plan to the press undertook to show that the majority stockholders might have the power under the present system to withhold profits from distribution when the minority might differ and wish the distribution to be made. But there is no remedy for this in the courts. Any stockholder who thinks a surplus is being unreasonably accumulated can appeal to the courts for relief.

The disturbing nature of the proposed plan is that it is to be rigid. It puts a fixed tax rate on the undistributed surpluses. Heretofore the federal tax laws have contained a provision which taxes surpluses unreasonably accumulated or those which can be proved to have been withheld just to evade taxes. The burden of proof is on the taxpayer who appears before the commissioner of internal revenue to defend the act of withholding the surplus from distribution. What it has resulted in however is that not a single case has reached the supreme court of the United States to determine whether even such a tax is constitutional. Lower courts have held that where the purpose is plainly tax evasion as in the case of a personal holding company the forcing of distribution is a valid exercise of power.

There has been no clear-cut issue as between the visitation of the internal revenue commissioner and the taxpayer corporation as to what constitutes a safe surplus and an unreasonable one. Can the federal government's judgment be substituted for that of the owners of a corporation as to what it ought to do with its earnings? There is no doubt of the power of the congress to levy taxes that are oppressive but it is a doubtful question whether congress by the word undistributed can in effect control the use of income in such a way as to endanger the property of the taxpayer.

* * *

But where the businesses of the country are going to get the extra tax money in the face of new drains such as is involved in the payroll tax and other burdens is not explained by anybody in the administration. They certainly will not be able to afford to pay the undistributed surplus tax but will prefer to disburse their earnings. Old corporations with surpluses from the past will grow stronger. New companies will never grow strong because they will not be able to build up surpluses. At the first sign of a falling off in business these new companies will be compelled to lay off workmen so as to be on the safe side. They will not dare take chances on an upturn in business as we did so many corporations in the past which actually kept payrolls intact and paid the business losses out of past surpluses accumulated in good years.

The President has listened to some of the brain trust group who have been getting up new tax "reforms." Mr. Roosevelt is convinced that it is a sound tax plan. It would be perhaps when business had accumulated through years of prosperity some substantial surpluses and when borrowing in the capital markets was not hampered by all sorts of government restrictions. But coming at a time when business surpluses have been drained and when new money for expansion is difficult to get because of the unstable times and restrictive laws the new taxes on undistributed earnings will if enacted do more to retard recovery than to promote it.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The selling story of the economic outlook lies behind the success of Secretary Morgenthau's latest money raising venture.

Most of the enthusiastic things which the treasury secretary has been saying about it for the past few days are true. His oversubscription was really on the level. The big bankers and insurance executives showed unexpected eagerness for long term government securities after long intrust.

The treasury publicity would seem to indicate however that these large investors have suddenly decided that the new deal is going to be a big thing and want to get in on it in a bigger way. Also that inflation fears have been stamped out finally and for ever.

That is a pretty picture for public purposes but a little too pretty. The under side of it is somewhat different and more accurate.

Cause

Everyone knows of course that the big institutional investors have not been able to make enough out of Mr. Morgenthau's short term notes to pay their rent. They get an average of about one-half of 1 per cent interest. Anyone who has tried to live off Nathaniel Beer knows how much one half of 1 per cent is.

Furthermore they seem to have come around since last December to the conclusion that the commercial money market is not going to open up wide anytime soon. Business is expanding but not at a rate to furnish substantial interest returns for the banks and insurance companies any time soon.

Thus the sudden banking appetite for Mr. Morgenthau's long term 2¾ per cent interest bonds appears to have been developed with the wolf at the door. Inasmuch as they were getting thinner and thinner on one-half of 1 per cent and not seeing any 4, 5 or 6 per cent commercial loans for in fact any other profitable business in the offing they apparently decided Mr. Morgenthau's 2¾ per cent interest proposals were not so bad after all. It does not mean caviar or cake but it will pay the rent.

Rays

In this background you may find these following rays of light on the economic outlook as seen by the largest investing eyes.

Business is expected to pick up gradually but not in a boom.

Higher interest rates are not considered an early prospect.

Mr. Morgenthau will have an easy time raising money as long as the existing state of mind and appetite continues.

Currency inflation prospects therefore are more remote than ever.

Market

No new deal authority have come right out and publicly said the stock market is too high now but a lot of them have been hinting it aloud wherever they were certain to be overheard. (See SEC Commissioner Landis congressional testimony and shifts about the federal reserve board strengthening reserve requirements.)

It is no secret that some key stocks are being quoted at prices hardly justified by their earning prospects for this year. At least all the top new deal fiscal authorities think so. They are afraid this situation will build up into a letdown before long. They would rather have the letdown now and another build up just before election.

The economic as well as the political thing to do apparently is for the reserve board to act now. It is customary in handling fires to put water on them before the flames get too big.

But what the board men apparently are worried about is the obscure fact that the law permits them to increase reserve requirements only by 50 per cent once. They are afraid they will use up their water before the fire really gets started.

Notes

Supreme court justices were a little upset when they heard a rumor that they might abandon their summer recess to hear new deal cases. It is not unusual however for them to delay adjournment a week in order to clear up pending business. This is what they have in mind now.

Sen. Borah has a ringless telephone. His secretary tells him when to answer by use of the buzzer from the outer office. The other day when the secretary was out a delegation sat outside waiting for him for hours while he sat inside waiting for them. It was all right however because they were newsmen not voters.

A Washingtonian says he amused himself in Miami last week by going around looking at hotel registers and counting 82 government officials vacationing. There should have been more. Most of the officials have suffered unusually from colds due to the severe winter here.

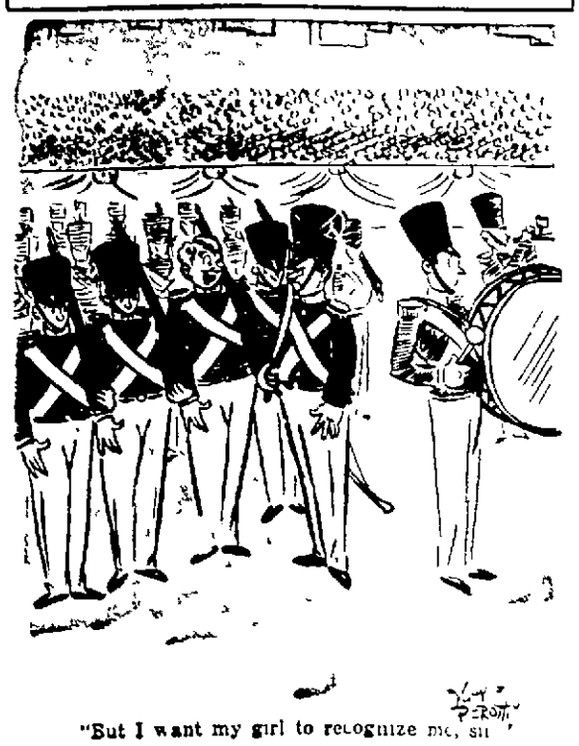
LAFF-A-DAY



"But I want my girl to recognize me, sir!"

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact Fancy and Folks

NEW YORK, March 5.—There was a brief mention of the passing of Charles A. Starr, a newspaper man aged 72, in the obituary columns recently. His last years were spent in a religious home. He was a member of the old Evening Mail staff when I began my journalism in New York.

Every newspaper has its Charles A. Starr. The kindly elderly and self-effacing fellow who rarely reaches the executive desk yet on complainingly is one of the indefatigable workers. Among Starr's duties was arriving at 4 a.m. to clip news for early edition re-write.

He was generally fluttering about when those of us who arrived several hours later were off for a snack at Doc Perry's. He saw many cubs such as Ring Lardner, Goldberg and Grantland Rice zoom to great heights and no one was more proud or outspoken in their delight than he.

A church man he neither smoked nor drank and slipped quietly from a group waxing ribald. He lived a life of serenity in a world that was constant confusion.

* * *

Another venerable totterer on the Evening Mail cops desk might have been the model for Casper Milquetoast without his timidity. An honor graduate of a big eastern college he seemed to have clutched at success and missed. He smoked an unholy brand of three-for cigars and wore a skull cap. One morning in reaching for his cap I anticipated him in a gesture of courtesy and before handing it over shook off a thick coating of dust. He glared and squeaked in falsetto fury. If I needed a valet I'll hire one and never spoke to me civilly again.

Then there are elderly gentlemen such as the silver haired Whitney Warren the architect who make those much younger conscious life is not such a grumpy ordeal after 60. I see him swing along my street almost every late afternoon siphoning a sartorial splendor that would give Clifton Webb and Fred Astaire a twitch. He lunches at smart restaurants and clubs and makes dining a dinner jacketed event. Col. Creighton Webb is another an octogenarian indeed who has the same flair for keeping out of the chimney corner.

The Trans Lux news reel theater on upper Madison has been discovered by the autograph pests. A treasure trove long overlooked. It is the Gold Coast's drop-in place to smother ennui before setting off for late dinners and after theater affairs. For instance on a recent night I saw there the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, Mrs. James Roosevelt and her grandson James and wife, Miriam Hopkins, Gary Cooper, Al Smith and James Montgomery Flagg.

Thingumabobs: Greta Garbo likes generous dashes of garlic. Maybe that's the reason Harry Richman was once a $60-a-week dress salesman. Vincent Astor's almost constant companion is Prince Obelinsky who divorced Astor's sister. The Weaver Brothers and Elvery have quit vaudeville to retire to their Missouri farm. Monkeys do not search each other for fleas. They search for a skin scale something like human dandruff and sweet tasting.

CHAMPION DETROIT TIGERS BEGIN NEW DRIVE FOR PENNANT

Bolstered by the acquisition of slugging Al Simmons although there are some who will say they need no bolstering, the Detroit Tigers began another drive for the championship of the American league with spring training at Lakeland, Fla., hoping they took up where they left off last fall when they won the world series Manager Mickey Cochrane (left) got in a little batting practice amid his other duties Simmons who came to the Tigers from the Chicago White Sox, is shown above limbering up his arm with Cy Perkins (right) coach (Associated Press photos)

ROOKIE OUTFIELDERS ON WAY TO THE TOP

Joe Di Maggio, West Coast Recruit in Yankee Camp, Likely To Become Regular.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK March 5—Rookie outfielders have caught the eyes of ivory fanciers to an unusual extent at this year's major league baseball tour up in the south and far west.

Joe Di Maggio Yankee recruit from the west coast seems destined to start the coming American league campaign as a regular

Di Maggio coast league batting record of 308 along with a number of other juicy minor league marks compiled by rookie stars carry no guarantee but they can be discounted and still look good Oscar Felch Jr who hit 390 in the same league as Di Maggio may land a job with Brooklyn while George Puccinelli top batsman of the International league at 379 last season is already a fixture in the cleanup spot for the Athletics

Wilson (Dee) Miles speedy slugger from Chattanooga is slated for regular duty in the Washington outfield There's a wide open race for outfield jobs on the Chicago White Sox with Mike Kreevich a 345 hitter last year in the American association showing considerable early foot for the benefit of infielde

Mickey Cochrane boss of the world champion Tigers has decided to convert two rookie infielders into outfielders One of them Rudy York a Texas league product has shown ability already York came up as a first baseman The other prospect is Chet Laabs who hit 381 with Fort Wayne (Ind) last season and played third base

Ohio State Track Stars Out for Olympic Berths

By International News Service

COLUMBUS O March 5 — Blessed with some of its most outstanding track and field talent since the days of George Simpson and Jack Keller former world record holders in the dashes and hurdles respectively Ohio State university has apparently sewed up at least two positions on the United States track squad for the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin this summer

Led by Jesse Owens Ebony Express the Buckeyes plan to send at least a five man team to the Olympic tryouts this spring with the great Negro sprint star and Charles Peltram Western conference half mile champion favored to land berths

Owens who broke accepted world marks in the 220 yard dash the 220 yard hurdles and 220 yard low hurdles in addition to tieing the 100-yard dash mark during the 1935 Big Ten meet at Ann Arbor Mich is not expected to participate in the hurdle events this spring in an effort to get better time and distance in the dashes and broad jump Larry Snyder Ohio State track coach declared

Peltram whose mark of 1 52 for the 880 in the Big Ten meet was the best time recorded during the 1935 collegiate season is likewise expected to develop into an outstanding competitor on the U S team and only recently turned in a 1 56 mark during an indoor meet

In addition to Owens and Peltram the Scarlet and Gray will send Dave Albritton another Negro star Melvin Walker and Bob Pettigrew to the Olympic track and field tryouts and Jim Patterson to the swimming meet

Walker and Albritton both high jumpers have consistently cleared 6 feet five inches—or better—and are given an outside chance to land an Olympic berth while Pettigrew a sophomore javelin thrower is a comparative newcomer and not expected to break any records during the trials

Patterson national junior div ing champion of 1935 is also rated an excellent chance to land a diving position on the swimming squad an event the United States has been only too weak in in the past

Although not accepted by the National Amateur Athletic Union Owens marks of 20 3 in the 220 22 6 in the 220 low hurdles and 8 feet eight and a quarter inches in the broad jump have been approved by the National Collegiate body and along with his 9 4 mark for the 100-yard dash are recognized as world's intercollegiate records

Bringing Up Father — By George McManus

MOTHER-PLEASE DON'T CRY SO MUCH - I JUST KNOW FATHER IS ALL RIGHT AND HE WILL SHOW UP-
OH! I'M AFRAID HE HAS BEEN HURT-MAYBE HE WAS HIT ON THE HEAD BY A HIGHWAYMAN OR RUN OVER-
IT WOULD JUST KILL ME IF I KNEW HE WAS SUFFERING—
THE DOOR-BELL JUST RANG - IT SOUNDS LIKE MR. JIGGS' RING - ISN'T IT GRAND, HE IS HOME AT LAST!
